

product review

Want to be a product tester?

Email us at products@beyondoncology.com

Results for Purell Hand Sanitizer with Aloe

● This one received a fair rating. Use of this product was an indifferent experience. Aside from the issue of dryness after repeated use, Purell gets a maybe on the list of future hand cleaners.

● This was low on the absorption scale, but received an A+ for affordability. Even though this may not be first choice, Purell gets an average score for being an easy travel partner.

● This is a no go on all levels. The smell was displeasing and it provided no moisture for the hands. Although affordable, this product stays off the "to-buy" list.

● This one goes negative for the nose, also leaving sticky residue, but positive for portability.

Results for Bath and Body Works Midnight Pomegranate Hand Gel

● This one loses points in all categories. This hand sanitizer is sticky, too strong in scent and is too costly.

● This gets a thumbs down across the board, except for the price. Although other products have praise, this sanitizer was too goey and strong for the sniffer.

● This got ecstatic reviews on all counts with the exception of pricing. Although a tad heavy on the wallet, it remains on the shopping list.

● This gets a thumbs up on odor, portability and softness. On sale, this product is a must have!

Results for Natural Concepts Hand Sanitizer

● This one grabs the gold in all categories: softness, cost and scent. Kudos for Natural Concepts.

● This is a winner with texture of hands after repeated use, price and scent. Natural Concepts gets a superior rating.

● This gets rated fair on pricing but the smell alone will not put this product on the bathroom counter. Texture was rated sticky and dry and overall gets an average score.

● This one loses all categories. It is sticky, not convenient in portability and takes too long to dry. This one goes home with no trophy.

Denise O'Reilly
Drexel Hill, PA

Denette Grider
Greenville, IN

Kathleen Karaszewski
Tucson, AZ

Mercedes Guerra
Houston, TX

Comments in random order and do not correspond with photos.